BVL LAUNCHES 2014-2015 CAMPAIGN

As they have done for the last 72 years, thousands of BVL volunteers and supporters around the country kicked off their annual campaign -- "Giving Our Best for Our Best" -- on Veterans Day, November 11. Whether it is a raffle, a tournament, a dinner, or just passing the hat, BVL volunteers are keeping the promise made in 1942: We will not forget the service and sacrifice of those who fought for our country. "BVL fills a unique and valued role in the lives of our active duty troops and veterans," explains BVL Chair John LaSpina. "Though our programs and services, we provide the 'spark' that truly Brightens Veterans' Lives. Moreover, we are delivering these programs with remarkably low overhead -- we are proud to be recognized as one of 'America's Best Charities,' to have earned the distinction as a 'Top Rated Nonprofit,' and to been accepted into the Combined Federal Campaign. There's great value in what we do and how we do it." Concurrently, BVL is disseminating annual grants for recreation therapy programs throughout the country -- providing the "extras" which boost spirits and brightens the days of our American heroes. "You can walk into any VA Medical Center and State Home or visit with the wounded warriors at Walter Reed National Military Medical Center and see the difference BVL is making," says LaSpina. "But the need is greater than ever. Please join us in our 2014-2015 campaign 'Giving Our Best for Our Best'." Headquartered in Metropolitan Washington, D.C., BVL is a national 501(c)(3) and is governed by the sport of bowling. Learn more at www.BowlforVeterans.org.

WOMEN'S PRO BOWLING TO RETURN IN 2015

More than a decade after holding its last event, the Professional Women's Bowling Association (PWBA) Tour will re-launch in mid-summer of 2015 with a nine-event tour and a new logo. The PWBA has a three-year funding commitment from the United States Bowling Congress and Bowling Proprietors' Association of America to support operations and provide guaranteed prize funds for the 2015, 2016, and 2017 seasons. Additional information about the PWBA Tour schedule, event format, and membership will be released in the future.

MEMBERSHIP DEPT.

John W. Smallwood Sr. of Beltsville, Md., recently was indefinitely suspended from membership in USBC and is not to hold office or bowl in any USBC leagues or tournaments. ... Ronald E. Greenstreet of Alexandria, Va., and James J. Lorenzano Jr. of Hampstead, Md., remain suspended from membership in USBC.

Special thanks to our association volunteers

Bowlers:

As we continue to go through our 2014-2015 season, it's clear the spirit of volunteerism is alive and well, as several bowlers have come by the association office and lent a helping hand to assist with the processing of leagues and other tasks.

Our Hall of Fame ceremony held last month at Joint Base Anacostia-Bolling was a tremendous success, as it was well attended, included a great meal, and guests witnessed the induction of four new members. I want to personally thank the members of the Hall of Fame Committee for all the hard work they did to pull it off.

The outcome of our recent Senior Tournament held at Bowl America Woodbridge was very positive. There was an upsurge in entries; in fact, some bowlers were unable to enter because the squads were full. The Tournament Committee will consider expanding the event next year to allow more bowlers to enter.

Our Annual Meeting will take place on Sunday, March 15, 2015, and it's not too early to think about attending. As always, we hope to have a large turnout, as this is your opportunity to express your opinions and ideas in front of your fellow bowlers to help improve bowling on the local and/or national levels.

Your continued support of BVL (The Bowlers to Veterans Link) will allow our veterans to continue to receive recreational equipment and other items not covered by government funding. Your generosity helps to speed up the recuperation process as well as reduce stress in their lives. Keep up the good work so this program will continue to be successful. For more information, go to www.bowlforveterans.org.

Finally, I would like to thank the office staff for their diligence and perseverance in making the association office run smoothly for the benefit of the bowlers.

For any information you may need, please contact the association office or me at president@ncausbca.org.

Once again, "Good Bowling."

Is your league off to a good start?

Most of us are about to complete the first third of the bowling season, and there are a few things that should have been done by now:

Secretaries

- File the league certification application within the 30-day grace period. Failure to do so violates the bonding program requirement.
- Give each team captain a copy of the league rules.

Treasurers

- Set up a bank account requiring two signatures to withdraw league funds and arrange to have the bank statement sent to the league president.
- Provide each bowler with a report of his/her payment history to date.
- Use an accounting system that can withstand an audit.

Go Figure

50

Starting "senior" classification age in the 2015 NCAUSBCA Open Championship Tournament.

$27,465

NCAUSBCA's contribution to BVL in the 2013-2014 season, which led the nation among local associations.

120

Vacancy score in an adult league unless otherwise provided by league rule.

Presidents

- Monthly audit of the league's funds to ensure all is in order and to comply with the bonding program requirements.
- Appointed a prize committee
- Appointed an audit committee that should conduct an audit midway through the season.

If the league officers have accomplished the above tasks, your league is off to a good start.

Meanwhile, several centers this season have contracted with NCAUSBCA to process youth memberships. We currently are working with USBC to remove several "bugs" in the processing system, so I ask youth coaches and league coordinators to please be patient. Once the system is perfected, we will look into offering a more comprehensive youth membership package.

Tournaments

- This year's Senior Tournament at Bowl America Woodbridge had a great turnout with quite a few more entries than last year.
- The 5th Annual Mixed Tournament in Support of BVL is scheduled for December 6-7, 2014 at Bowl America Shirley, so let's keep the enthusiasm going as it supports our veterans.
- Entry forms for the 70th Annual Open Championship Tournament are being prepared and should be online and in your centers soon.

Is your league's handicap system fair?

By Pie Snelson

A few years ago, I wrote about the inequities in many leagues' handicap systems, and I took a lot of grief from people who did not agree with me. They were adamant that handicap should be capped at 200. Well, that's just not true. Maybe back in 1975, someone who had an average of 200 was king, but that era faded about 30 years ago. Now, with more consistent lane dressing, better bowling balls, and good coaching beginning in the youth leagues, 200 is still a fine average to have, but it is no longer the benchmark it used to be.

Pie Snelson

Previously, I showed a handicap that is limited to a 200 base unfairly punishes a lower-average team. They can almost never win against a higher-average team, even when they bowl well and the higher-average team bowls poorly. The good news is I have found more tournaments now get it, and almost all have raised their handicap base.

Unfortunately, many leagues, though, still do not understand that by limiting handicap to 200, they hurt the lower-average bowlers and condemn them to perpetually losing to the higher-average teams. What's worse is some small-average bowlers themselves vote to limit handicap because someone convinced them bowlers with 200 averages "don't need any handicap." They have chosen to wrestle the gun away from the good guy and use it to shoot themselves in the foot.

This example contains actual averages from a real 2014-2015 league that has limited its handicap to 80 percent of 200:

TEAM A			TEAM B			TEAM C
Name	Avg	Hcp	Name	Avg	Hcp	Name	Avg	Hcp
Al	211	0	Ben	186	11	Cab	209	0
Ann	131	55	Babs	153	37	Casi	182	14
Amy	165	28	Barb	169	24	Cal	154	36
Abe	243	0	Bob	189	8	Clem	213	0
Axe	225	0	Bill	215	0	Cez	219	0
Total	975	83	Total	912	80	Total	977	50

Notice that even though the total team average of Team A (975) is higher than Team B (912), Team A gets way more handicap. How can that be?

Actually, there are several problems with the system used by the league. First, its handicap is based on an individual average of 200. Just looking at just these three teams, we see seven bowlers with averages that are above the base of 200. If 200 is the average limit for handicap, then all bowlers whose averages match or exceed 200 get zero handicap. At zero handicap each, they are deemed equal to each other. We know that a person who averages 131 is not as good as a person who averages 165, so why do we say that a person who averages 209 is equal to a person who averages 243? Yes, they both average 200 or better, but they are not equal. By limiting the handicap to ²⁰⁰, we pretend that they are equal ... but they are not equal!

A second injustice here is in assuming the bowler who averages ¹⁵³ plus her ³⁷ handicap pins—a ¹⁹⁰ total—stands a chance against the ²⁴³-average bowler. Is that really fair?

But the real inequity here is allowing the teams with the really big-average bowlers to benefit from all the handicap that the small-average bowlers bring to the team without having those pins offset by the higher averages also on their team. Look at the total averages of Team A versus Team C. The team averages are only two pins different, but in each game, Team A gets ³³ pins more handicap than Team C! This is because Team A gets to keep all of the handicap pins that their lower-average bowlers get.

There are multiple ways to right this wrong. One way is to make the highest average in the league the handicap base. Doing that here would change the handicap to one that is based on the ²⁴³ average. The handicap would be ⁸⁰ percent of the difference between the bowler's average and ²⁴³. Here's how it would look:

TEAM A			TEAM B			TEAM C
Name	Avg	Hcp	Name	Avg	Hcp	Name	Avg	Hcp
Al	211	25	Ben	186	45	Cab	209	27
Ann	131	89	Babs	153	72	Casi	182	48
Amy	165	62	Barb	169	59	Cal	154	71
Abe	243	0	Bob	189	43	Clem	213	24
Axe	225	14	Bill	215	22	Cez	219	19
Total	975	190	Total	912	241	Total	977	189

Although these handicaps would be fairer and more reflective of the averages, some bowlers have it hard-wired in their heads that ²⁰⁰ is the magic number that should not have any handicap. So for those who cannot come to grips with the idea that a ²⁰³-average bowler is not equal to a ²³⁰-average bowler, another way to approach the issue is to use team handicapping instead of individual handicapping. This neutralizes the advantage that big-average bowlers get when they are allowed to keep all of the handicap from the small-average bowlers on their team. Here is an example of how it would look using a team handicap based on ⁸⁰ percent of ^{1,000}:

TEAM A			TEAM B			TEAM C
Name	Avg	Hcp	Name	Avg	Hcp	Name	Avg	Hcp
Al	211		Ben	186		Cab	209
Ann	131		Babs	153		Casi	182
Amy	165		Barb	169		Cal	154
Abe	243		Bob	189		Clem	213
Axe	225		Bill	215		Cez	219
Total	975	20	Total	912	70	Total	977	18

Now that is much better and far fairer.

Please take the time to review your own league and see if the handicap system being used is working for your team. If you see a problem, share this article with your teammates, and be sure you all attend your league's organizational meeting and vote to make things better and fairer.

Until then, practice hard and bowl well.

Getting up to speed; the importance of spares; lane adjustments

Q. I have been bowling now for over 20 years. I have always had good ball speed, but recently I have noticed a considerable slow down. Because my turn on the ball is still good, the ball is hooking out of my hand. Is there anything I can do to get the speed back?

A. I have been bowling now for 61 years. I started when I was 11 years old, so I know about speed changes. I also used to throw the ball hard. When I reached 60 or so, ball speed went way down. Over the years between 60 and 70, I learned to make up for lost speed with ball weight and cover changes. Most of my equipment went to high pin placements and polished covers to get the ball through the heads.

After a trip to the Kegel Training Center in Lake Wales, Fla., I realized that a big part of the problem is in the approach. When we get older, we tend to focus on being smooth on the approach; we have more even steps from start to finish.

I watched video of some of the top stars, and they all have one thing in common: They start with slow steps and finish with fast steps. A good person to watch is Chris Barnes; his last three steps are almost twice as fast as his first steps. This gives him momentum, and that translates to faster ball speed.

So in my case, I backed up on the approach went to six steps. I try to take the first three slow and pick up speed during the last three. Doing this has helped me to pick up about 1½ miles per hour ball speed. I have to consciously think about it at first, but after a few frames of practice, it becomes more natural.

Q. I have been bowling for quite a few years now. I average in the low 210s, but this season I have been slumping into the high 190s to low 200s. The shot we are on does not seem that much different. I have been practicing, but it has not helped. What can I do to get my game back?

A. Bowlers seem to have an aversion to taking lessons. If you golf and are having problems with your swing, the first thing you do is see the local pro and get help. Bowlers for some reason think they can do it on their own.

The other solution they have is to buy a new bowling ball. Now don't get me wrong—a new ball many times can help your game and here's why: You get a new ball, and you get caught up in watching the reaction of that new ball. You forget about the things that you have been working to correct. Many times then they correct themselves.

However, a faster way is to find a professional instructor in your area and take a few lessons. You can't see or feel what is wrong. A good instructor will see it right away, and then you can practice fixing these mistakes. After a little practice, you and the new ball will be the bowling beast you want to be.

1. This center will host NCAUSBCA's 5th Annual Mixed Tournament in Support of BVL.
2. How many inches tall is a USBC-regulation tenpin?
3. He currently serves as NCAUSBCA's fifth vice president.
4. In what season did NCAUSBCA begin operations 2003-2004 or 2006-2007?
5. What would be the Adjusted Average for a bowler with a 200 Sport League Average?
6. True or False: A league officer can declare games forfeited when a team uses an ineligible player.
7. True or False: A bowler never needs to report winnings from a non-certified tournament.
8. True or False: Bowl America Woodbridge has 48 lanes.
9. What is the minimum number of entries to constitute a squad for a singles tournament?
10. Within how many days must a team bowl its games when a postponement is granted for the last day of the schedule?

ANSWERS: 1, Bowl America Shirley; 2, 15; 3, Darron Mayes; 4, 2006-2007; 5, 214; 6, True; 7, False; 8, False; 9, Two; 10, Seven.

Q. You are always touting spare shooting over striking as the best way to improve scoring. Why do you say that as opposed to getting more strikes?

A. There are 1,023 different possible spare combinations. Many of these are unusual spares for sure, but this number of possibilities should tell you why a developing a good spare shooting system is paramount to good scores. If you don't have or know about a spare shooting system, ask your local pro shop operator or instructor to help you develop one.

Think about it this way: To raise your average 10 pins, you only need to pick up one more spare per game. Better accuracy on spares also will translate to more strikes because you will also become more accurate on the first ball.

Q. I am having problems with my lane adjustments. When I think I need to move, I try to make the move right away, but then I always seem to make terrible shots for three or four frames before settling down. Have you any idea as to why this happens?

A. You are doing the right thing by moving quickly; this can save you from a bad game. Your problem is your mind is not convinced you are making the correct move. You have to have complete confidence that the move you make is the correct move. Then you have to make the shot with conviction.

Next time you make a line change, believe 100 percent that you are right; you will then make a good shot. If the result is not what you wanted, at least you learned something and only wasted one shot. Then try again. It's just a matter of trusting yourself and your game.

Q. I have been trying to convince friends of mine to bowl with me, but they seem to think there are few health benefits in bowling. Can you give me some health reasons to take up the sport?

A. You can tell them some facts about bowling. A 150-pound person burns about 200 to 250 calories in one hour of bowling. This can vary from person to person, but it helps with weight control if you don't indulge in beer and chili cheese fries.

Strength training exercises use repetitive motion with weight. This is bowling—walking, bending, twisting, and throwing, all with weight. You are doing squats, lifting, and stretching, all at the same time.

Bowling helps balance, motor skills, and coordination.

Bowling is good for the mind; it promotes focus and problem solving.

Bowling builds social relationships and helps teach working together as a team.

All of these benefits are like joining a health club except cheaper and more fun. Plus, bowling today is in almost all cases done in a smoke-free environment. Bowling can be done at almost any age from 3 to 103—and older!

I hope this helps to convince your friends.

Q. I recently have been pulling the ball way too many times. I went to a coach to see if this was timing or early turn. He did not see either; he just suggested more practice. Do you know of any other tricks that might help?

A. Several years ago, I read an article that said Bill Taylor, a well-recognized coach for many years, had an unusual practice method to help with trusting your shot: You start your approach, and in your slide step, close your eyes. What this does is help concentration; you have to keep your eyes on on the mark you want to hit. That mark has to be the last thing you see when you close your eyes or there is no chance to get close to it.

Closing your eyes blocks all outside interference. You won't notice anything around you. You will feel your armswing like never before. It helps you to stay down and completely frees up your arm. This stops any muscling of the ball. It helps you gain full extension of the arm during your follow-through.

You will also learn how to post after the release. Posting is holding your position after release, and it stops you from pulling up or back too early. You will learn to have complete trust in your physical game. It is a great practice tool. It is also fun after you get over the fear of where you might throw the ball.

As a footnote, I tried this a few years ago for a full season during league and even tournaments. I averaged 220-plus, finished high in several tournaments, and even had a 300 in Las Vegas at a Senior High Roller. I still go back to it even during competition when my game is off.

Don't do it in competition until you get very comfortable doing it. Do it in practice; it will really help your confidence and game.

The best part is I can honestly say I shot a 300 with my eyes closed!
